

The OREGON OBSERVER

Vol. 124, No. 38

Thursday, March 15, 2007

16 pages, 1 section

Traditional craftsmanship

A massive door surround is unveiled March 6 at the Deer Park Buddhist Center near Oregon.

The door surround was handcarved by 30 artists in the course of a month in Mysore, India, from a single teak log. At left: Geshe Sopa, director and abbot of the center, sees a finished piece of the project for the first time. Below: Workers begin laying out the finished project.

Jeremy Jones photos

